DIVISION OF TAX APPEALS

In the Matter of the Petition :

of :

SALVATORE J. AND LUCILLE GUERRERIO

for Redetermination of a Deficiency or for Refund of : New York State and New York City Personal Income Taxes under Article 22 of the Tax Law and the Admin: istrative Code of the City of New York for the Years 1985 and 1986.

DETERMINATION DTA NO. 815754

Petitioners, Salvatore J. and Lucille Guerrerio, 45F Jefferson Oval, Yorktown Heights, N.Y. 10598, filed a petition for redetermination of a deficiency or for refund of New York State and New York City personal income taxes under Article 22 of the Tax Law and the Administrative Code of the City of New York for the years 1985 and 1986.

The Division of Taxation, by its representative Steven U. Teitelbaum, Esq. (Herbert M. Friedman, Jr., Esq., of counsel), brought a motion dated August 12, 1997 for an order of summary determination in the above-referenced matter. Petitioners, appearing pro se, did not respond to the motion. Upon review of the file, the administrative law judge determined that there was a question as to the years in issue. Both parties were given time to submit additional papers. The Division submitted additional motion papers on September 19, 1997. Petitioners' response letter was received on November 19, 1997, which date commenced the 90-day period for issuance of this determination. Upon review of all papers filed in connection with this motion, Winifred M. Maloney, Administrative Law Judge, renders the following determination.

ISSUE

Whether the Division of Taxation properly denied petitioners' claim for refund of tax paid on Federal pension income as untimely pursuant to Tax Law § 687(a).

FINDINGS OF FACT

- 1. Petitioners, Salvatore and Lucille Guerrerio, timely filed claims for refund for tax years 1987 and 1988.¹ In 1994, petitioners received refunds of tax paid on Mr. Guerrerio's Federal pension for the years 1987 and 1988.²
- 2. On September 17, 1994, petitioners filed a claim for refund of taxes paid on Federal pension income for the years 1985 and 1986. On January 30, 1995, the Division of Taxation ("Division") issued a Notice of Disallowance to petitioners denying their claim for refund on the basis that such claim had not been filed within three years of the filing of petitioners' tax returns for the years at issue.
- 3. Petitioners challenged the Division's Notice of Disallowance by requesting a conciliation conference with the Bureau of Conciliation and Mediation Services ("BCMS"). BCMS issued a Conciliation Order (CMS No. 155230) dated March 14, 1997 denying petitioners' request and sustaining the Notice of Disallowance.
- 4. On August 13, 1997, petitioners filed a petition which challenged the Division's denial of their refund claim for the years 1987 and 1988.³ Petitioner Salvatore J. Guerrerio asserts that ¹The record is silent as to the actual filing date.

²The record is silent as to the exact date of the refund. Those years are not in issue in this proceeding.

³According to petitioners' November 19, 1997 response letter the correct years in issue are 1985 and 1986. (See, Finding of Fact "10".)

when he contacted the Division he "was greeted with confusion and could not get the proper refund forms" to file his claim for refund in a timely manner. (Emphasis in original.)

- 5. The Division served an answer to the petition on June 12, 1997. The Division denied the allegations contained in the petition and affirmatively stated that petitioner Salvatore Guerrerio was a Federal employee who paid tax on his Federal pension for the years 1985 and 1986, that petitioners' claim for refund for such years was denied as untimely, and that any instances where refunds were approved for those who paid New York State income tax on Federal pension income were limited to instances where timely refund claims had been filed.
- 6. The Division's motion for summary determination is supported by the affirmation of Herbert M. Friedman, Jr., sworn to August 11, 1997, and the affidavit of Charles Bellamy, sworn to August 7, 1997.

Mr. Bellamy is employed by the Division as a Tax Technician II in its Audit Division. His responsibilities include reviewing and processing refund claims filed by taxpayers who paid tax on Federal pension income. Mr. Bellamy, in his affidavit, attests that petitioners: 1) timely filed their 1985 and 1986 personal income tax returns (i.e., filed their returns for such years on or before April 15, 1986 and 1987, respectively); 2) filed a claim for refund for taxes paid on Federal pension income for the years 1985 and 1986 on September 17, 1994; and 3) failed to file any claims for refund or amended returns for the years 1985 and 1986 at any time prior to September 17, 1994.

Mr. Friedman, in his affirmation, asserts that since petitioners did not file refund claims or amended returns for their personal income taxes for the years 1985 and 1986 within three years from the time the returns were filed or two years from the time taxes were paid, whichever is later, pursuant to Tax Law § 687, petitioners' refund claim should be barred as untimely, the petition before the Division of Tax Appeals should be denied with prejudice and the motion for summary determination should be granted.

- 7. This matter was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Maloney who, after an initial review of the papers filed in this matter, determined that there was a question as to which years were actually at issue and granted both parties additional time to respond.⁴ Both parties submitted responses.
- 8. To clarify the correct years at issue and in further support of its motion, the Division submitted the affirmation of Herbert M. Friedman, Jr., sworn to September 19, 1997, along with attached documents including, among other things, correspondence from petitioners to Mr. Friedman dated June 29, 1997. Based on his review of documents submitted by petitioners to the Division, Mr. Friedman affirms that petitioners received their full refunds for tax years 1987 and 1988 in September 1994 and that petitioners are seeking refunds for tax years 1985 and 1986 only.
- 9. Attached to Mr. Guerrerio's June 29, 1997 letter is an itemization of events leading up to the filing of the petition in this matter in which Mr. Guerrerio states the following:
 - "1. I am a former federal employee who paid New York State taxes on my federal pension income for many years.
 - "2. I was never informed verbally or in writing by the State of NY that I was due a refund for any of the taxes that I had historically paid to the State.

⁴Based upon review of the file and the motion papers submitted in this matter, Administrative Law Judge Maloney determined that it appeared that the Division of Tax Appeals used the wrong dates when the matter was set up.

⁵The June 29, 1997 letter was written by petitioner Salvatore J. Guerrerio.

- "3. In 1990 my son informed me that he had read that the State of NY was giving credit and refund [sic] to individuals who had paid NY State Tax on their federal pension income for 1987 & 1988.
- "4. We contacted the State, confirmed this fact, requested the appropriate refund forms and inquired if there were any other years that this refund would apply to. While we did receive the requested forms for 1987 & 1988 months later, we were informed that there were no other years for which this decision applied or for that matter were there any other years being considered for this refund.
- "5. I completed the State Refund Forms for 1987 & 1988 and submitted same.
- "6. Months later I received my tax refunds for 1987 & 1988 together with an instruction letter that talked about the tax refunds not only for 1987 & 1988 but for the years 1985 & 1986. Needless to say I was quite surprised.
- "7. We called the State and immediately requested the appropriate refund forms for 1985 & 1986 and [I] was informed that they would be sent.
- "8. Weeks later, not receiving the promised forms, we called again and [I] was informed that they were forth coming [sic]. We also wrote to the State and requested these forms in writing.
- "9. At no point in this process did we ever receive any instructions about a time limitation on requesting a refund.
- "10. Again not receiving the forms promised we created the 1985 & 1986 refund forms ourselves, based upon the 1987 format.
- "11. In summary, I feel that I was not informed of the State policy change and then after I contacted the State Authorities on this matter I was not given complete and accurate information in a timely fashion. Further, required filing forms were either intentionally, or through bureaucratic mix-ups, [kept] from me. Thus resulting in what the State Authority would consider a late filing."
- 10. By letter dated November 1, 1997, petitioner Salvatore J. Guerrerio confirmed that the correct years at issue are 1985 and 1986. The letter did not address any of the Division's assertions other than to confirm the years in issue. Mr. Guerrerio's response letter was received by the Division of Tax Appeals on November 19, 1997.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. To prevail on a motion for summary determination the moving party must show that there are no issues regarding the material facts, and that the facts presented compel a determination in his or her favor (20 NYCRR 3000.9[b]). In this particular case, petitioners have raised no challenge to the facts alleged by the Division, including the central fact that petitioners did not timely file claims for refund for the years in issue. Accordingly, the facts as set forth by the Division in its moving papers are deemed admitted (see, Kuehne & Nagel v. Baiden, 36 NY2d 539, 544, 369 NYS2d 667). Therefore, with no material facts at issue, the question becomes whether the Division is entitled to summary determination on the law, to wit, whether petitioners' claim for refund for the years 1985 and 1986 was properly denied as untimely filed pursuant to Tax Law § 687.

B. As noted, the central fact set forth in the affidavit of Charles Bellamy, and deemed admitted by petitioners, is that petitioners did not timely file a timely claim for refund for the years 1985 and 1986. On March 28, 1989, the United States Supreme Court issued a decision in the case of Davis v. Michigan Dept. Of Treasury (489 US 803, 103 L Ed 2d 891). The Davis decision held that a state violates the constitutional doctrine of intergovernmental tax immunity when the state taxes retirement benefits paid by the Federal government but exempts from taxation retirement benefits paid by the state or its political subdivisions. The Davis decision did not address the issue of retroactive application of its holding.

At the time of the Davis decision, New York Tax Law § 612(c)(former [3]) exempted State and local pensions from taxation; however there was no similar provision for Federal pensions.

As a result of Davis, the New York State Legislature amended the Tax Law effective January 1, 1989, to exclude Federal pensions from New York income tax (see, L 1989, ch 664; Tax Law § 612[c][3][ii]). This exemption was to apply beginning with tax year 1989. At that time, the Division of Taxation also took the position that the Davis decision applied prospectively only and denied all claims for refund of tax paid on Federal pensions for years prior to 1989 even where timely claims were filed. Litigation on the issue of whether the Davis holding should be applied retroactively ensued in New York and throughout the country (see, Duffy v. Wetzler, 148 Misc 2d 459, 555 NYS2d 543, mod 174 AD2d 253, 579 NYS2d 684, appeal dismissed 80 NY2d 890; 587 NYS2d 900, revd 509 US 917, 125 L Ed 2d 716, on remand 207 AD2d 375, 616 NYS2d 48, lv denied 84 NY2d 838, 617 NYS2d 129, cert denied 513 US 1103, 130 L Ed 2d 673).

C. Subsequent to the Duffy v. Wetzler decision, the issue of how to apply the Davis holding was resolved in Harper v. Virginia Dept. Of Taxation (509 US 86, 125 L Ed 2d 74). The Supreme Court in Harper held that the rule announced in Davis was to be given full retroactive effect; however, it did not provide relief to the petitioners therein. Rather, citing to McKesson Corp. v. Division of Alcoholic Beverages & Tobacco (496 US 18, 100 L Ed 2d 17), the Supreme Court held that a state was free to choose the form of remedy it would provide to rectify any unconstitutional deprivation, but that such a remedy must satisfy the demands of Federal due process (Harper v. Virginia Dept. Of Taxation, supra at 101, 125 L Ed 2d at 88-89). In this context, Federal due process requires that where taxes are paid pursuant to a scheme ultimately found unconstitutional, the state must provide taxpayers with "meaningful retrospective relief" from taxes, meaning that in refund actions the state must afford taxpayers a "fair" opportunity to challenge the accuracy and legal validity of the tax and a "clear and certain remedy" for any erroneous or unlawful tax collection (see, McKesson Corp. v. Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco, supra at 39, 110 L Ed 2d at 37-38).

D. Following the Supreme Court decision in Harper v. Virginia Dept. Of Taxation (supra), the State of New York, in June 1994, decided to pay full refunds plus interest to the approximately 10,000 Federal retirees who paid State income taxes on their Federal pensions prior to 1989 pursuant to tax provisions that were later determined to be unconstitutional in Davis v. Michigan Dept. Of Treasury (supra), and who had filed timely administrative claims for refunds for those taxes with the Department of Taxation and Finance (Duffy v. Wetzler, 207 AD2d 375, 616 NYS2d 48, supra). Thus, in response to the Davis and Harper decisions, the State amended the statute to conform to the rulings and granted refunds to those Federal retirees who had filed timely refund claims.

There is no dispute that petitioners timely filed claims for refund for tax years 1987 and 1988 and subsequently received their refunds for those years. However, their untimely claim for refund for tax years 1985 and 1986 is the subject of this motion.

E. Tax Law § 687(a) controls refunds of overpayments of income tax in New York and provides, in pertinent part, as follows:

"Claim for credit or refund of an overpayment of income tax shall be filed by the taxpayer within three years from the time the return was filed or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever of such periods expires the later, or if no return was filed, within two years from the time the tax was paid."

F. Petitioners do not dispute that their refund claim for the years at issue was not filed until September 17, 1994. Rather, they assert that their petition should not be denied based on a technicality. They argue that they were unaware of a time limitation for filing a refund claim. They also contend that the Division, either "intentionally, or through bureaucratic mix-ups", did not supply information and forms to them in a timely fashion. The issue is thus whether the Tax Law § 687 statute of limitations may be enforced where the statute imposing the tax is later found to be unconstitutional. The Supreme Court held in McKesson that a relatively short statute of limitations is sufficient for due process requirements, citing the example of a Florida refund statute which imposes a three-year statute of limitations (McKesson Corp. v. Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco, supra at 24, 110 L Ed 2d at 28, note 4, citing Fla Stat § 215.26[2]; City of Miami v. Florida Retail Federation, Inc., 423 So 2d 991, 993). Clearly, New York's three-year statute of limitations meets the Supreme Court's due process requirements as set forth in McKesson. (See, Matter of Burkhardt, Tax Appeals Tribunal, January 9, 1997; Matter of Jones, Tax Appeals Tribunal, January 9, 1997; Matter of Silverman, Tax Appeals Tribunal, January 9, 1997.) Accordingly, petitioners' contention that the relevant limitations period should not be applied is rejected.

G. Petitioners did not file any refund claims for the years at issue within the three-year limitations period. Rather, their refund claim for tax years 1985 and 1986 was filed on September 17, 1994, after the statute of limitations for the years in issue had expired. The Tax Appeals Tribunal has consistently held, in every case brought before it to date by Federal retirees, that refunds cannot be granted unless a timely claim has been filed (see, Matter of Epstein, Tax Appeals Tribunal, March 27, 1997; Matter of Hinds, Tax Appeals Tribunal, February 13, 1997). Furthermore, petitioners' contention that the Division should have notified them that they were entitled to a refund of taxes paid on Federal pension income reported on their returns is without merit. The Division does not have an affirmative obligation to help taxpayers preserve their claims by notifying them of due dates for the filing of pertinent forms. It was petitioners' responsibility to ascertain from the Division how to go about filing a refund claim. It is noted that petitioners did file timely claims for refund for the years 1987 and 1988.

At that time, petitioners could have filed refund claims for 1985 and 1986. They failed to do so.

Moreover, petitioners provided no evidence that they were misled by any Division employees.

There being no material facts at issue and the Division being entitled to summary determination on the law, petitioners' claim for refund of personal income tax for the years 1985 and 1986 is barred and was properly denied as untimely filed pursuant to Tax Law § 687.

H. The Division's Motion for Summary Determination is granted, the petition of Salvatore J. and Lucille Guerrerio is denied, and the Division's Notice of Disallowance of petitioners' refund claim for the years 1985 and 1986 is sustained.
